

Porirua City
Festival Of The Elements

Wednesday, 6 February 2012
Waitangi Day, PORIRUA
Te Rauparaha Park & Arena, Aquatic Centre & Pataka

Official Festival of the Elements website

<http://www.elementsfestival.org.nz>

Welcome to another Porirua Festival of the Elements! I'm looking forward to Waitangi Day on February 6 when once again this now famous one-day festival will offer a superb programme of arts and culture.

This year we once again return to Te Rauparaha Park, and the outstanding new facility in Porirua - Te Rauparaha Arena. The festival will also utilise the Aquatic Centre and Pataka. The day starts with an opening ceremony at 12 noon, with a wide range of arts and entertainment programmes continuing through until 7.30 pm.

The Festival uses the arts to celebrate the cultural diversity of Porirua, made possible by the Treaty of Waitangi. The elements of earth and air, fire and water embrace concepts of significance to all cultures, concepts around which we can all unite. Tangata Whenua and Tangata Tiriti rejoice together on Waitangi Day by way of the arts.

There are 3 community groups who enable us to deliver a safe festival to the community. They are Porirua Community Guardians, Titahi Bay Lions Club, and the Maori Wardens

This Festival continues to be a non-profit event, organised by the Porirua Community Arts Council.

Lions Club of Titahi Bay provide our caravan and Lions members

- Caravan available for lost property, lost children, meeting place if required
- Casual day-time security as required in co-operation with other groups, Maori Wardens, Guardians etc
- Stall holder ushering onto and off the grounds
- Stall holder food certificate checks
- Stall holder fee collection
- Traffic control staffing at main entry points in co-operation with P.C.C.
- Availability of limited range UHF two-way hand-held radio communications on the PRS frequency ch19 for official use. (limited number of hand-held radios available)
- Other assistance as required and agreed to at the time of the Festival of the Elements 2012 event.

The Festival of the Elements remains a great day out! Don't miss it!

